Course overview
This course is taught by the School of Nursing and Midwifery, Trinity College Dublin in partnership with The Rotunda Hospital, Dublin and The Coombe Women and Infants University Hospital, Dublin. The course aims to develop midwives with the knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary to become competent, analytical and reflective practitioners, thus enabling them to provide care in a manner that benefits women, their babies and families.

Structure and delivery
The course consists of both classroom and practice learning:

Theory: 26 weeks (24 weeks classroom and 10 individual study days)
Practice: 52 weeks (including 9 weeks holidays and Public Holidays)

For the duration of the course, the student is an employee of either The Coombe Women and Infants University Hospital, Dublin or The Rotunda Hospital, Dublin and a registered student of Trinity College Dublin.

Progression through the programme will require the student to achieve the required standards for attendance, professional conduct and the assessment of theory and practice. Assessment methods are varied and wide ranging, they include: examinations; written and oral assignments; case presentations; independent and group work; skills assessment and OSCE (Objective Structured Clinical Examination).
