Trinity-Duquesne PhD Summer School 2023

About the Programme

The School of Nursing and Midwifery Trinity College Dublin and the Duquesne University School of Nursing (Pennsylvania) are delighted to offer PhD students this great opportunity to explore research methodologies commonly used in nursing and midwifery research. The Dublin-based programme is designed for students in the early to mid-stage of their PhD studies to explore aspects related to engaging in their PhD journey.

The programme includes:

- Exploring your topic and aligning it with current trends in Nursing & Midwifery.
- Exploring and synthesising the literature.
- Choosing and identifying your research question.
- Approaches within common qualitative and quantitative methodologies (including analysis).
- Managing the PhD journey.
- Navigating ethics, reflexivity, and rigour.
- Opportunity to present your PhD work and obtain critical feedback.

Accommodation must be booked separately.
Campus accommodation is available at:
